Heroes

Even the champions fall now and then
Only the valiant get up again
That's where the warriors find the will to win
They source deep down a force they found within

Some heroes run, some heroes fly
Fast as a flash across the sky
You know in your heart the hero you are
The one done talking

Some heroes uplift, some heroes lead,
Some voted least likely to succeed
Most of them learned when they crashed and burned
With the whole world watching

Even the Mighty feel afraid
But deep down inside where mighty is made
They fight back fear by facing it brave
With the courage to no longer be its slave

Some heroes fight that others be free
Endure for an end they'll never see
Leaving behind a world that's designed
For hope tomorrow

Some heroes are strong , some heroes give voice
To right those wronged that had no choice
Stand up to abuse, stand up for the truth
They stand for honor

Even the good guys make mistakes
There are no bad guys, just bad breaks
But only a hero sees past the façade
In every fallen face is the face of god

Some heroes run, some heroes fly
Fast as a flash across the sky
You know in your heart the hero you are
The one done talking

Some fight despair and dare to believe
Some from a chair they'll never leave
But till they prevail they try and may fail
But it failed to stop them

Even the champions fall now and then

©2009 Christopher Showerman